Continuing our adventures online, Abriachan Nurseries has now got a presence on both Flickr and Facebook.

And we have a garden blog

www.lochnessgarden.blogspot.com

All the plants we list in our catalogue have proven their worth as good garden plants, or are part of one of our collections such as Auricula. Over the years we have seen a few plants that dazzle us with their beauty but disappoint us with performance. We also like our plants to have a little "je ne sais quoi" whether that be lovely scent, a flash of subtle colour, or just looking right in the place or association where they grow.

GRASSES

Grasses can make inspirational planting. They bring the air of the wild into a garden. Here are a few of my best ideas.

- Use in a mixed border, they are a great change of texture and a cooling colour. e.g. Miscanthus, Pennisetum, Millium
- Grasses look great in "designed plantings" among rocks and large gravel. e.g. Stipa, Miscanthus, Cortaderia, Carex
- Some grasses look fantastic as potted specimens e.g. Stipa arundinacea, Hakenochloe, Carex
- Try some annual grasses with poppies. Fabulous. e.g. Hordeum jubatum
